CANON & CANONICITY: The Formation & Use of Scripture [Einar Thomassen (ed)]

The authority of the Bible is one of the defining features of Christianity. However, the origins of the Biblical canon, both as an idea and as a composition still pose many unresolved questions and the nature of the bible's authority, including the many ways in which that authority has been tapped throughout history, are important and vast areas of investigation. The essays in this book discuss such crucial issues as the history of the formation of the biblical canon, examples of the canonisation of books in Antiquity outside Christianity, and the nature and function of canonical texts in general. Several essays, furthermore, deal with the numerous ways in which biblical canonicity has been construed and utilised in more recent European history. The essays, written by specialists in religious studies, ancient history, classical philology, church history and literary theory, should be of interest to students, scholars and general readers concerned with scriptural and literary canon formation.

DEBATE ON JEWISH EMANCIPATION & CHRISTIAN THEOLOGY IN OLD BERLIN: [David Friedländer, Friedrich Schleiermacher & Wilhelm Abraham Teller; Edited & Translated by Richard Crouter & Julie Klassen]

When wealthy Jewish industrialist David Friedländer proposed in 1799 that Berlin's Jews undergo a sham conversion to Christianity in return for full German citizenship, he touched off a political and theological debate that would define the relation between Jewish and German identity for more than a century. In the provocative letters collected here, Friedländer, Protestant leader Teller, and young Christian theologian Schleiermacher debate Friedländer's radical proposal, grappling with thorny problems that continue to vex world leaders today.

DIVINE FEUDAL LAW: Or, Covenants with Mankind, Represented [Samuel von Pufendorf; Simone Zurbuchen (ed)]

Based on his theory of natural law, Pufendorf denounces the Revocation [of the Edict of Nantes in 1685] as an illegitimate and tyrannical act and advocates toleration. 'The Divine Feudal Law' can be seen as a complement to the treatise on toleration . Pufendorf attempts to demonstrate in 'The Divine Feudal Law' that union of Lutherans and Calvinists is possible on the basis of a theological system containing the fundamental articles necessary for salvation. In contrast, reconciliation between Protestants and Catholics is declared to be impossible. Originally published posthumously in 1695, The Divine Feudal Law sets forth Pufendorf's basis for the reunion of the Lutheran and Calvinist confessions. This attempt to seek a "conciliation" between the confessions complements the concept of toleration discussed in Of the Nature and Qualification of Religion. In both, Pufendorf examines how to secure the peaceful coexistence of different confessions in a state.

EXPERIMENTAL THEOLOGY IN AMERICA: Madame Guyon, Fénelon & Their Readers [Patricia A Ward]

In this study of Madame Guyon and, her defender, Francois de Fénelon, the Archbishop of Cambray, Patricia Ward demonstrates how the ideas of these seventeenth-century Catholics were transmitted into an ongoing tradition of Protestant devotional literature -- one that continues to influence American evangelicals and charismatic Christians today. Down a winding (and fascinating) historical path, Ward traces how the lives and writings of these two somewhat obscure Catholic believers in Quietism came to such prominence in American spirituality -- offering, in part, a fascinating glance at the role of women in the history of devotional writing.

FINGER OF GOD: How God's Existence Impacts Upon Humanity [Vincent John Delany]

"The Finger of God" sets out to describe how God's existence impacts upon humanity. The Divine Plan's inevitable fulfilment is discussed from a biblical perspective, with reference to contrasting actions and narratives of good and evil. The context for discussion is the issue of Christian religiosity -- how it is viewed and practiced not only by the Christian world at large, but also by its formal practitioners and religious leaders. The constant reality of a spiritually present dynamic kingdom is contrasted with the contradictory discordant voices of visible churches. A fundamental thread through the work is the necessity to promote doing the right thing -- toward our fellow human beings, and especially to God – rather than to follow mere religious precepts. Transformation is brought about by recognising that the incarnation, death and resurrection of Jesus lies at the heart of salvation and immortality. A reasoned guide is presented as to ongoing and future conflicts between light and darkness, and under what circumstances a righteous divine victory will emerge whereby God's intentions are successfully implemented in a new, perfect environment for the eternal benefit of humankind.

LIFE TOGETHER IN THE WAY OF JESUS CHRIST: An Introduction to Christian Theology [Dan R Stiver]

Dan Stiver has crafted an engaging one-volume introduction to Christian beliefs, based on his experience teaching introductory theology courses. While describing how traditional theology came to be, he explains for both undergraduates and graduate students how theology is already a part of their life of faith. As he examines traditional theological issues and such current topics as globalisation and ecology, Stiver treats theology as a living, dynamic activity. Employing useful case studies, his groundbreaking approach helps students understand what theology is -- and shows them that they are participants in creating an ongoing, vigorous theology that will remain at the centre of their faith for the rest of their lives.

LIVING & TRUE GOD: The Mystery of the Trinity [Luis F Ladaria]

This is a New Translation of a Book in which the author affirms that the Trinity -- one God in three persons, Father, Son, and Holy Spirit -- is the central mystery of the Christian faith that enlightens all other mysteries of the faith. An understanding of the Trinity is essential for the protection and defence of the divine/human person of Jesus Christ and his saving work. This book documents the historical development of the doctrine of the Trinity and its significance for the Christian faith. In a broad and systematic way, Ladaria traces the debates within the early Christian church as the concept of the Trinity developed. He also reflects on the great masters of church tradition concerning their understanding of the trinity and is in dialogue with various contemporary theologians on this subject. This book has been written especially for theological students and professors as an aid in grasping the Trinitarian formulation both historically and theologically and to assist in deepening their faith and reflection in the mystery of God.

LORD, GIVER OF LIFE: Toward a Pneumatological Complement to George Lindbeck's Theory of Doctrine [Jane Barter Moulaison]

George Lindbeck once characterised post-liberalism, which received its initial structure from his book “The Nature of Doctrine”, as an attempt to recover pre-modern scriptural interpretation in contemporary form. In this book, Jane Barter Moulaison explores Lindbeck's own theological contributions. Taking seriously the ecumenical promises of Lindbeck's writing, this book brings his cultural-linguistic model of religion into dialogue with Christianity's theological forbears. This constellation of theological voices not only tests the viability of a religious model but also advances Lindbeck's project in ways that have not yet been pursued. Through specific attention to Eastern Trinitarian theologies of the fourth century, this book exposes a rather persistent oversight within Lindbeck's recovery: namely, that alongside the regulative function of canon and doctrine, early biblical interpretation recognises the role of the Holy Spirit in the appropriation of scripture, in the mission of the church, and in the defence of the gospel within the context of an unbelieving world.

LUTHER & LATE MEDIEVAL THOMISM: A Study in Theological Anthropology [Denis R Janz, Ph.D.]

A careful analysis of Luther's thought in the context of his age, this volume examines Luther's links with later medieval Thomism. The study is organised on the theme of theological anthropology -- the state of humans within a theological system. In the course of the discussion, Janz studies parallels and divergences between the thought of Luther and the thought of Thomas Aquinas, Peter Lombard, John Capreolus, Henry of Gorkum, Conrad Koellin, Karlstadt, and Cajetan. Janz suggests that at some crucial points late medieval Thomist teaching misrepresents the teaching of Thomas Aquinas. This, compounding Luther's lack of direct knowledge of Thomas, helps to explain Luther's opposition not only to his own nominalist teachers but to the scholastics generally. Students of late medieval and Reformation theology will find the wealth of primary citation and the detailed readings of the sources invaluable guides to the issues. Students of religion interested in contemporary problems in theological anthropology, in the natural capacity of humanity for good and evil, for example, will find the historical Christian perspective of great interest.

AUTHOR INFORMATION: Denis Janz received the Ph.D. from the University of St. Michael's College, Toronto, in historical theology. He teaches in the religious studies department of Loyola University, New Orleans and has published articles on late medieval and Reformation topics in various scholarly journals..

PREDESTINATION & JUSTIFICATION: Two Theological Loci [Peter Martry Vermigli]

Predestination and justification are two of the most distinctive and familiar doctrines associated with the Protestant Reformation. Martyr, an influential Protestant theologian and biblical exegete of the sixteenth century, engages advocates and detractors alike in his most extensive discussions of these controversial theological topics, drawn from his monumental commentary on the Apostle Paul's letter to the Romans. The great value of these two treatises is that they provide a vital if unheralded Protestant perspective on what were two of the most controverted doctrines of the Reformation era -- not only between Roman Catholics and Protestants, but also among the Reformed, Lutheran, and Anabaptists as well.

REDEEMING MULATTO: A Theology of Race & Christian Hybridity [Brian Bantum]

The theological attempts to understand Christ's body have either focused on "philosophical" claims about Jesus' identity or on "contextual" rebuttals -- on a culturally transcendent, disembodied Jesus of the creeds or on a Jesus of colour who rescues and saves a particular people because of embodied particularity. But neither of these two attempts has accounted for the world as it is, a world of mixed race, of hybridity, of cultural and racial intermixing. By not understanding the true theological problem, that we live in a mulatto world, the right question has not been posed: How can Christ save this mixed world? The answer, Brian Bantum shows, is in the mulattoness of Jesus' own body, which is simultaneously fully God and fully human. In Redeeming Mulatto, Bantum reconciles the particular with the transcendent to account for the world as it is: mixed. He constructs a remarkable new Christological vision of Christ as tragic mulatto – one who confronts the contrived delusions of racial purity and the violence of self-assertion and emerges from a "hybridity" of flesh and spirit, human and divine, calling humanity to a mulattic rebirth. Bantum offers a theology that challenges people to imagine themselves inside their bodies, changed and something new, but also not without remnants of the old. His theology is one for all people, offered through the lens of a particular people, not for individual possession but for redemption and transformation into something new.

RENAISSANCE BIBLE: Scholarship, Sacrifice, & Subjectivity [Debora Kuller Shuger]

First published in 1998 by the University of California Press, The Renaissance Bible skilfully navigates the immense but neglected materials spanning the gap between medieval biblical scholarship and the rise of Higher Criticism. Debora Kuller Shuger powerfully demonstrates the disciplinary fusion of Renaissance biblical scholarship -- in which the Bible remained the primary locus for cultural, anthropological, and psychological reflection -- against modern historians' penchant for bracketing all things religious when re-imagining the Renaissance world. Despite the considerable ground she covers and the interdisciplinary nature of her subject, Shuger never roves. Her penetrating focus casts remarkable light on her subject, especially Renaissance writers' use of the Passion. Their concerns emerge as surprisingly contemporary, inviting the reader to reflect on such relevant topics as selfhood, violence, and gender.

SHAPING THE SCRIPTUAL IMAGINATION: Truth, Meaning & the Theological Interpretation of the Bible [Donald H Juel]

The late Donald H Juel (1942-2003) devoted his life to engaging scripture faithfully, intelligently, imaginatively. For Juel, theological interpretation of the Bible meant having an encounter with the living God. This volume identifies and connects many of the overarching themes that animated Juel's work. Including his thoughts on the rhetorical nature of scripture, the challenges facing academic instruction of the Bible, the reader's place in the biblical narrative, and the hope of resurrection, among others, the selections are accessible and engaging and paint a unique portrait of the way Juel thought and lived. He seeks to nourish readers in developing richer imaginations about who God is and how Christians meet God through reading the Bible.

AUTHOR INFORMATION: Donald H Juel was Professor of New Testament at Luther Seminary (1978-1995) and Princeton Theological Seminary (1995-2003). Juel dedicated himself to helping people discover God and His mysteries through attentive, honest engagement with Scripture. Shane Berg is Assistant Professor of New Testament at Princeton Theological Seminary in Princeton, New Jersey. Matthew L Skinner is Associate Professor of New Testament at Luther Seminary in Saint Paul, Minnesota..

TIME, REALITY & TRANSCENDENCE IN RATIONAL PERSPECTIVE: [Peter Ohrstrom (ed)]

Rationality is widely regarded as being at odds with the very concepts of metaphysics and transcendence. Yet it is easy to forget that the thinkers who pioneered rationality and the scientific method did not subscribe to this view. For instance, Aristotle described God as the source of reason in "Eudemian Ethics", and Newton and Galileo both believed that our ability to investigate the world scientifically has a divine origin. The eight essays in this volume examine a variety of intellectual approaches to the Christian faith, addressing a number of philosophical questions en route. The book concludes with the transcript of a public debate on whether theism is more rational than atheism. Not only does it serve as a useful reminder that religion and reason can inhabit the same discourse, but the lack of a clear winner also demonstrates the importance of trying to wrestle with such perennial questions. Anyone who is exploring the arguments for Christianity's rational basis, whether out of academic, cultural or personal interest, should find in this volume much food for thought.

WESLEY, AQUINAS & CHRISTIAN PERFECTION: An Ecumenical Dialogue [Edgardo A Colón-Emeric]

Employing fresh, innovative readings, Edgardo Colon-Emeric examines and underscores the centrality of the concept of perfection for the theologies of Thomas Aquinas and John Wesley -- and finds them, surprisingly, largely complementary. Utilising the image of a "kneeling ecumenism," he offers a practical account of how ecumenical conversations can move forward. At a time when many Methodists struggle to understand Catholicism and many Catholics know little of Wesley and Methodism, this stimulating work provides the church as a whole a communal grammar of holiness, in demonstrating how the theologies of perfection of Aquinas and Wesley have significant messages for both groups.

WHAT GOD KNOWS: Time & the Question of Divine Knowledge [Harry Lee Poe & J Stanley Mattson (eds)]

When Einstein destroyed the old view of the universe, he destroyed the old notion of time with it. His new theory explained that time is a dimension of the physical cosmos like space, and like space it is relative. This collection of essays by theologians, physicists, and philosophers explores the theoretical aspects of the problem of time and its implications for faith and the understanding of God.

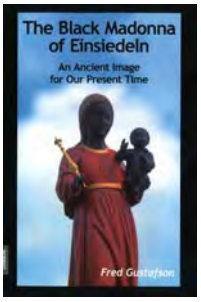
RELIGION & PSYCHOLOGY



BLACK MADONNA OF EINSIEDELN: An Ancient Image for Our Present Time [Fred Gustafsib]

It is not easy to answer the question of what the Black Madonna actually represents. One answer leads to more questions, which, in turn, demand more explanations. Still, she reflects herself in our personal and collective lives and gives intimations of her most essential meaning through images, myths, dreams, and fantasies. If we are willing to receive and be open to such phenomena, we might not only learn what she could represent, but we could also experience the healing force she embodies in our time. Throughout history, this darker aspect of the feminine has been both feared and sought after, both hated and admired. The Black Madonna of Einsiedeln stands among the many Black Virgins that seem to imagistically express this dark side of the feminine in a creative transformational manner for both the individual and the collective. Beginning with a history of the Einsiedeln Madonna, Dr Gustafson broadens his analysis into a psychological and historical examination of the Black Madonna, from her roots in the pagan deity Lilith and the archetype of the Great Mother, to her resurgence as the Virgin in the Middle Ages, to her life today as the unheeded, unconscious archetype of the feminine.

CONSTRAINT ON TRIAL: Dirck Volckertsz Coornhert & Religious Freedom [Gerrit Voogt]

This book is a thorough examination of the life and thought of Dirck Volckertsz Coornhert (1522-90), the Dutch notary, artist, poet, playwright, translator, and controversialist who defended freedom of conscience and toleration. Coornhert's individualism made him eschew any restrictions on personal religious choice. His spiritualist beliefs are revealed in his writings on toleration and show him as a man who saw himself as 'God's battering ram against the prison of men's conscience'.

CULTURE OF OUR THINKING IN RELATION TO SPIRITUALITY: [Michael Hogan]

This book explores the culture of our thinking in relation to spirituality. It focuses largely on psychological science and the problems faced by scientists as they attempt to understand spirituality in action. The book attempts to untangle the concept of spirituality from various cultural attachments and considers the way different worldviews and philosophical perspectives can influence our models of spirituality. The book moves toward a contextualist view of spirituality, focusing in particular on the act in context, and it moves the reader to consider spirituality as the ultimate testing ground for pragmatic analysis. In this context, spirituality has to become more than a simple abstraction to survive, because to survive the test of pragmatic analysis it must facilitate successful action in context. The fact that spirituality has survived as a working concept for thousands of years suggests that it is resilient in this respect. However, to survive in the modern culture of science it needs to constantly reinvent itself as a working concept. Ultimately, spirituality, in this book, resurfaces from the depths of abstraction as part of an ongoing action state that has real functional significance. Spirituality comes to be identified as a worthy focus of analysis for children and adults alike as part of the science of education itself. Spirituality is not an abstraction to be feared and branded as anti-scientific. But to reverse engineer spiritual consciousness and spiritual action is no easy task either. Insight and out-sight must reach some form of compromise.

FEMALE ANCESTORS OF CHRIST: [Ann Belford Ulanov]

The spiritual power of the Feminine shines forth in this psychological study of four Old Testament heroines from Jesus' family tree. Tamar, Rahab, Ruth, and Bathsheba are the only women mentioned by name in the Gospels' genealogies and, for Ann Belford Ulanov, this indicates that they impart something essential to the lineage of Christ. By exploring their brave and unconventional lives, she demonstrates how salvation enters the world in the feminine mode of being human, through these women's embodiment of such powerful and deeply feminine qualities as ingenuity, audacity, determination, compassion, seduction, and devotion.

FRINGES OF RELIGIOUS EXPERIENCE: Cross-perspectives on William James' 'The Varieties of Religious Experience' [Sergio Franzese & Felicitas Kraemer (eds)]

William James's Varieties of Religious Experience is one of the most renowned works of the famous psychologist and founder of pragmatism, and a fully accomplished anthropological analysis of the phenomenon of religion. In this book a selection of 10 papers from international scholars, previously presented at the International Centennary Conference in Celebration of The Gifford Lectures at University of Edinburgh in 2002, explore the theoretical and historical 'fringes' of James's work in the attempt to provide new insights into some major issues involved therein.

RELIGION & PSYCHOLOGY: [Michael T Evans & Emma D Walker (eds)]

There has been a remarkable amount of popular and professional interest in the relationship between spirituality, religion, psychology, and health in recent years. This book begins with the importance of a critical methodology when studying the relationship between religion and psychology. Among the many topics presented is a study on the experience of contemporary peacekeepers faced with existential questions about life, death, being and the searching for meaning. Other chapters explore the relationship of holistic healing and personal development, recovery from trauma and spirituality, spirituality and a woman's ability to deal with infertility, and the relationship between a person's health and their ability to forgive.

WISDOM OF THE PSYCHE: [Ann Belford Ulanov]

This book promotes a strong argument for a 'feminine' approach to religious discovery: to struggle in the ambiguous gap between the wisdom of the psyche and the wisdom of Scripture, between our interior experience of God and the exterior reality of God. 'The Wisdom of the Psyche' urges clergy to help parishioners bring forth their unconscious feelings and images to join their conscious thoughts. In this way, the church allows its members the space to present themselves fully to God and to be fully present to the human need around them.

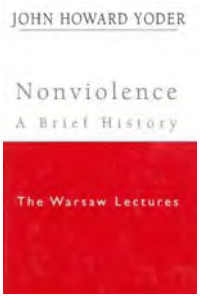
ETHICS OF NON-VIOLENCE



NONVIOLENCE - A BRIEF HISTORY: The Warsaw Lectures [John Howard Yoder]

Few theologians have done as much as John Howard Yoder to articulate the case for Christian pacifism. The eleven lectures collected in Nonviolence -- A Brief History were presented in 1983 in Warsaw, Poland, and this is their first publication together. Despite their apparent diversity, the lectures trace a single trajectory: the increasing relevance of non-violent thought and action. They argue that non-violence aligns with the inner logic of the world and, therefore, with human social existence. A quarter century after they were delivered, Yoder's remarks seem prophetic, heartfelt, and essential. For those unfamiliar with the life and thought of John Howard Yoder, these lectures, together with their accompanying brief contextualising summaries, provide an easily accessible introduction.

PEACE CHURCH & THE ECUMENICAL COMMUNITY: Ecclesiology & the Ethics of Nonviolence (Enns]

In 1998, at the eighth Assembly of the World Council of Churches in Harare, Zimbabwe, a motion was tabled and accepted that the World Council designate 2001-2010 as the "Decade to Overcome Violence". Fernando Enns, who proposed the motion in Harare, presents the theological foundations underlying his call for the churches of the world to work toward overcoming violence. Enns proposes that both Christian ethics and ecclesiology need to be based on a trinitariatilview of God as creator of the world, incarnated in Christ, and present in the Holy Spirit, urging all Christian churches to heed the call to peace and non-violence.

CHURCH DREAMS: Talking Against the Grain [Lohfink, SJ]

Distinguished biblical scholar Norbert Lohfink 'surrenders himself to dreams about how the church really ought to be'. These dreams are based in deep scholarship and solid convictions drawn from both the Old and New Testaments: about God's original intentions for Israel, about Jesus' renewal of God's people, and about the mission of those who since have followed him. If the world is to be refreshed and renewed, the author believes, it must be through the church.

GOD'S DESIGN: A Focus on Old Testament Theology [Elmer A Martens PhD]

The third edition of Martens's well known study of Old Testament theology which has become a standard textbook at evangelical seminaries and bible colleges. Exodus 5:22-6:8 reveals God's design for building his kingdom, a design with four components: 1) Deliverance, 2) Community, 3) Knowledge of God, 4) The Abundant Life. From these components, Martens constructs a grid through which the entire message of the Old Testament can be read.

OPTION FOR THE POOR: The Basic Principle of Liberation Theology in the Light of the Bible [Norbert F Lohfink, SJ]

This transcript of lectures given in 1986, presents the first major study by a biblical scholar of one of the most controversial phrases in contemporary theology. After showing that this concept was prominent among Israel's neighbours, Lohfink examines its meaning in the Bible, and its affinity to and difference from liberation theology.

STRUCTURE & THEOLOGY IN THE HOLINESS CODE: [Michael Hildenbrand]

This dissertation investigates the structure of the chapters found in the Holiness Code. Following a discussion of previous analyses of inverted structures, and of the methodologies to be followed, these chapters are investigated individually and arranged graphically so that the structure of each is made clear. {382 pages, 155x230mm, b/w illus; December 2003, PB, 1930566158 (9781930566156), £20.99, D & F Scott Publishing Inc (BIBAL Press)}
